M'CARTHY WINS FIERCE FIGHT

Local Man Whips Otto Sieloff.

The Finish Came After Ten Rounds of Whirlwind Ring Battle.

Chicago Man Was Knocked Down Twelve Times Before the End Came-Story of the Fight.

FTER ien rounds of the flercest and fastest fighting ever witnessed in a local prize ring, Otto Sicioff of Chicago went down and out last night before the hurricane of blows rained upon im by Jerry McCarthy of this city. Only ofter assimilating enough punishment to out half a dozen ordinary men into the and of dreams, and taking the count an even dozen times, did the Chicago had go He exhibited rare grit and gameness and time and again won the applause of the crowd by coming back when he cemed to be clear out.

Only at one stage of the mill was Mc-Carthy in actual danger. In the fourth ound, when Sleioff seemed to be about faded, the local lad grew reckless in his endeavor to land a knockout. Suddenly the "Fighting Dutchman" railled and, with a rapid succession of vicious swings to the head and neck, drove the local boxer back, and for a time it seemed as though McCarthy could not last through the round. Although very groggy, Jerry stalled and blocked, and with the timely assistance of the gong finished without going down. He railled surprisingly well and from the fifth round on was the stronger of the two men.

One Dozen Knock-Downs.

One Dozen Knock-Downs.

Twelve different times last night Me-Carthy put his opponent to the canvas, with head-splitting wallops, and eleven different times Sieleff gamely gathered himself and came back. Twice during the course of the mill the timekeeper's bell saved the Chicago lad from defeat. In the third round of the mill Sieloff had gone to the mat four times and was all but out when the gong sounded and checked the hostilities for a minute, Sixty seconds of rest revived the "Fighting Dutchman" wonderfully and he came back very strong, and in the following round nearly won the battle.

In the ninth round the self-same gong sounded when Sieloff was rolling about on the floor in a desperate effort to gain his feet. Five times during the minth the Windy City fighter went down before the terrific onslaught of McCarthy, and only the bell prevented Jerry from scoring the kneckout in this round.

Finish in the Tenth.

Finish in the Tenth.

Finish in the Tenth.

The finish came in the tenth. At the import the bell McCarthy tore after his opponent with the evident intention of ending matters. Seloff came up with a brave effort at a smile upon his battered features and danced about in an attempt to convince McCarthy that he was as fresh as ever. They rushed into a clinch. Referee Bean steeped between them, and as they parted Jerry whipped his right over and floored Sieloff with a hard swing on the back of the neck. The Chicago fighter was up at the count of nine, but was very unateady.

A moment later the local man planted another head-rocking wallop on the same spot, and Sieloff went to the mat or his face. By sheer grit and gameness the 'Fighting Dutchman' staggered to his feet after being down for the count or pine.

Scarcely knowing where he was, Sieloff balanced himself and squared off to his opponent. Before the gritty Chicagoan had fairly located McCarthy, the latter planted a full left-hand swing on the point of his opponent's law and it was all over.

Jerry Found His Friends. When Referse Willard Bean patted Me-carthy on the back as the winner, the crowd swarmed into the ring and fairly smothered the victor with congratulations. On the shoulders of his seconds McCarthy was carried to his dressing-room, amid deafening hows from the spectators. The first and second rounds of the en-counter were marked by some of the fastest milling ever seen to this city. Neither man had any advantage and for six minntes they went a frightful pace. In the third Sieloff came near going out and in the fourth McCarthy did a similar istunt. From the fifth to the ninth rounds the pace was a trifle slower, but both men mixed things vigorously.

In Sieloff's dressing-room after the battle the principals met and shook hands. "You're the toughest and gamest fellow I ever met. Otto," said McCarthy, as he grasped the fallen gladlater's hand. "They told me you couldn't fight "said Sieloff, with a faint smile, "but they're wrong. You're a good boy, Jerry, and it's ne disgrace to lose to you."

The main event did not begin until very near 10, o'clock. "Hap" Reid, who was scheduled to appear in a prellminary with Patay Hognn, refused to go on at the last minute and the event was called off. Two "inknowns" went on for six rounds and tarnished about as grotesque an exhibition of the many art as could be found this side of the Sandwich Islands.

Sieloff's manager insisted upon having three judges to not in conjunction with the referee and this caused an auditional delay. Perry Queenan, James Connelly and M. A. Bratz of Ogden were finally selected and the main event began. A good crowd witnessed the fight.

Farmer Builds Fence Dog Hunts Money Around a Train

Los Angeles Canine Who Has Made Collection of Coins Found in Gutters.

OS ANGELES, Cal., May 24.—Slowafter building a fence around an ly, but surely, Fremont, an aristocratic dachshund owned by Dr. quette near Kalkaska, John John Van Vleck of this city, promises to bring a small fortune to his owner. The dog has acquired the money-hunting habit, and has been thus far rewarded in his searches with remarkable success, having deposited at his master's feet in the aggregate $39.17, which was found in the streets and gutters of this city. This amount of money was deposited in a bank as a fund with which to buy Fremont an appropriate monument when he dies.

This dog has extraordinary scent for finding coins, which he invariably but he will not refuse to pick up and carry to Dr. Van Vieck any valuable articles of gold or silver which have been lost, thus being the medium by which various articles of greater or less value have been restored to the owners. Though money always comes first in the dog's estimation, anything bright will attract his attention, and the doc-tor has a queer collection of things that Frement has nosed out of dirt or refuse of the gutter and brought, with wag-ging tall, for his master's inspection. Not long ago the dog came tearing madly along after him gripping in his teeth something yellow and shining. It turned out to be a heavy gold garter

Two other more expensive propositions are to sink artesian wells to the cast of the town, about a mile and a half outside and pipe the water in. This would cost upward of $50,000. The other alternative is the installment of a large cistern in the northeastern part of the town, to be filled from artesian wells. By this plan a means of pro-testion from fire would be provided.
